Looting continues. The Boers horses are footsore, and there is great want of fodder, as the country is barren.

Communication with Fraserburg is suspended, and it is doubtful when this will be restored, inasmuch as the Boers are traveling along the line. Gen Thornycroft and Col. Deliste are continuing the chase. But their horses and mules are very tired.

Many Dutch residents attended the funeral of a Boer killed in action, and placed wreaths upon his comm. The Boers captured and destroyed the mails due December 20.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Peking correspondent of the Daily Mail, wiring January 1, says: "Russia, by conciliation, is trying to secure special advantages, and there is a strong belief that she will receive American support. It is hinted that 'Russia inspired unfounded charges of barbarity against the German troops, her motive being to sow dissension between Great Britain and Germany."

In a dispatch to the Times from Peking, dated December 21, Dr. Morrison gives the text of the Russo-Chinese agreement for the Russian protection of the Manchurian province of Fen Tinz. Russia, he says, consents that China shall resume the civil government on the following terms:

First, the Tartar general, Treng, undertakes to protect and pacify the province, and to assist in the construction of the railroad.

Second, he must treat kindly, feed and lodge Russians engaged in the military occupation, and in the protection of the railroad.

Third, he must disarm and disband the Chinese soldiers, delivering to the Russians as the Russians have not yet occupied.

SEATTLE LIBRARY BURNS.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Jan, 2.—The Public Library of Seattle was burned to the ground last night. The fire originated in the northeast corner of the basement, possibly from the furnaces. The total stock of books, numbering 25,000 volumes and valued at at least $30,000, are a total loss. The firemen responded quickly to the alarm, but after half an bour's work were entirely unable to cope with the blase. The fire broke out in several places at once, and they could do nothing with it. The building was built about ten years ago by Henry Yesler, Seattle's most famious pioneer, and cost him nearly $50,000.

From opinions gleaned from city officials, it is likely that a new building will be built at once. The house was occupied by Mr. Yesler for three years before his death, and was then one of the most handsome residences in Seattle.

IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.1

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—With but three inches to spare Kasee, the German, crossed the finish line in the lead in the last mile of the day of the racing at Park Garden Square. Bobby Waithour, the southerner, was his closest competitor, and the last man in the front lot was not ten yards in the rear. The distance at the end of the day was 535 miles 4 laps.

The day brought one retirement, that of Gougoltz, which was expected last night. His leg will have to go into splints for a week or two. There were no had falls during the day, and the riders seemed to be in good condition. Little Joe Downey's showing has been surprising. Fincher also did heroid work. Pew splile and easy going made a quiet day.

The thirtieth hour scores at he finish of the third day were as follows: Kaser, Waithour, McLean, McEachern, Stinson, Downey and Fischer gach 583.4; Babcock, 581.7; Muller, 572.2.

Supreme Court in the Cheroke Nation case, asks: "If the Paris treaty did not make Porto Rico a part of the United States, how could the Congress of the United States be vested with the right to legislate for it, and to determine the 'civil rights and political status of its native inhabitants?" Replying to his own question, Coudert asid: "The Congress of the United States is not vested by the Constitution, and cannot therefore be vested by treaty with the power to legislate for a foreign country." Coudert also suggests the possibility of an amendment to the Constitution, saying: "Nor need there be any concern with reference to the expediency. If the people of the United States deem it expedient that the additional powers exercised by their temporary agents should be approved and should be continued to their successors, the people can so ordain. The Constitution has provided an easy method for their so ordaining. It has not established the Supreme Court for that purpose. A constitutional amendment, if demanded by the people, can be presented in Congress and ratified by the Legislatures in less time than it will take this court to unravel and determine the momentous questions in our method of government and in the principles for which this government sands, is to be made, it should be made by the power which is at the base of all government—the people—for whose benefit the government is made. It certainly should not be done by a court intended to be a conservator of all our institutions and not the voice of the people to change the form and character of those institutions."

with a roof of thatch—a circumstance which in the end proved the destruction of the Globe. Upon the roof was—a little hut, from which a herald emerged to proclaim by three blasts of a trumpet that the play was about to begin. Over all rose a flagstaff, from which on play days floated a banner with the sign of the theater, Hercules bearings the globe. The performances began early in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock, or even earlier, and lasted some two or three hours. It is estimated that the Globe might contain when packed to the utmost some two thousand spectators.

In this theater Shakespeare's greatest plays were first produced. We know that "Lear," "o'theilo" and "Ma-beth," "Trollus and Cressida," "Pericles" and "The Winter's Tale" were brought out at the Globe, and it is a fair inference that his most charming comedy, "As You Like It," and his greatest tragedy, "Hamlet," with the three Roman plays, may also be included in this list. All these were written in that astonishing decade of Shakespeare's life from 1600 to 1616, when his company made the Globe their usual playing house. After that date they performed alternately at Blackfriars and at the Globe until the destruction of the latter by fire in 1613. This accident also is connected with Shakespeare's work, for it was by the discharge of a pair of "chambers" (small pieces of ordinance) that the thatched roof was set on fire, and within an hour the whole "virtuous fabric" burned to the ground. Fortunately, in spite of there being but two narrow exits, no loss of life occurred, although there was a notable destruction of forsaken cloaks and playhouse properties. "Only one man," writes a laughing contemporary, "had his breeches set on fire, which would perhaps have broiled him if he had not, by the benefit of a provident wit, put it out with bottle ale."

Shakespeare was probably not prevent at the configgration. Two years previously he had withdrawn to Stratford-on-Avon and settled down as a quiet burgher, living on the hand-some property that his profits as tion and adventure, splendid pageant and gorgeous costumes, and over all and ensurining all the matchless poetry of Shakespeare. What did it matter to his hearers that the stage was bare, the machinery rude, and the women's parts played by squeaking boys? Their imaginations responded to the poet's call, and as they listened to his lines they saw before them "the very helms that did affright the air at Agincourt." they wandered through the leafy glades of Arden with Rosslind and her lover, and heard the breakers roar about the enchanted island of Prespero. Part at least of Shakespeare's greatness as a poet, much of his success as a dramitist, was due to the imaginative sympathy and poetic appreciation of the ardiences for which he wrote.

"The trouble, Swilly, is that you're out of your class. Drop these people. You are not of their breed. I know the sort well. I don't mind telling you that I used to hang about University Place once upon a time myself. Nothing came of it, and the girl went back to France, where she belongs-married a plano-player, or something. They don't care anything for you, and, strange as it may seem to you, they don't care anything for you dollars. They are 'artistic,' which is to say that they haven't any sense at all. Drop 'em!"

They are "artistic," which is to say that they haven't any sense at all. Drop 'emi"

"I can't," Swillerby replied dejectedly, "I wouldn't give a curse for the rest of 'em, and as for that Beagrave, I'd like to gee him in fail, but, man, you don't know Mildred! If you could just rest your eyes once on Mildred you would understand. Mildred—" But the Friend of His Bosom was gone.

They drank his wine as a matter of course, knowing that it was no effort for him to provide it—nor did they seem to feel any sense of obligation because he bought it for them. In the eyes of these people his bank account was only a means to an end. They had no reverence at all for wealth as wealth.

recent editorial, expressed the opinion that "the Bouthern Democracy is about the only Democracy that is left," and that "since it furnishes the votes, it has the right to furnish the platform and the leaders." This is true in one many the leaders. This is true in one on this side of the vater, either owing to unfortunate natural conditions, to incapacity, or to downright dishonesty on part of the promoters, who, by the way, are not always Americans.

It is, indeed, frequently their own fellow-subjects whom the Britishers have to blame for the loss of their good ducats—or, rather, pounds steriling. A case of this kind was recently described in the London Financial News, in which, although the scene is laid on the North American continent, the "blarsted Yankees" had nothing to do with the operations. A company called the Canada Petroleum Company had been formed, to operate somewhere on the Pacific Coast of British North America, with a capital of $1,500,000, of which $500,000 was to be given to the venders in part payment for $3,000 acres of rich off land, including wells, warehouses and refineries. It turned out that there were no wells and no oil, except three small betties of light oil in the Manchester office, which may or may not have come from the property.

elsewhere. After mentioning that the Americus Club came along "marching on foot"—should they have marched on their heads, perhaps?—the writer describes a Venetian gondoia, at the decorations of which were used the Italian colora, red., green "and black." Worse than this, however, a Venetian mandolin player on board the traft "discoursed the harmonies of the Baltic." Perhaps this should be put down to the eccentricities of genius, as we know that the great Shakespare gave Bohemia a seacoast. But then, seographical knowledge was not so fat gd-vanced in those days.

By a typographical error, involving the simple addition of a cipher, the writer of the article on mining in the Midwinter Times was made to say that the copper output of Arisona was worth ten times the correct figure, or $110,450,000. At the present rate of prog-ress the Territory should reach that point by 1910, but we did not intend to anticipate.

May Irwin declares that she is going to encourage bachelorbood by building a "bachelors' home" in New York. The apartments will have button-sewing and trouser-pressing adjuncta. Good for May! The two Chamots appear to be about equal to a whole company of regulars. In other words, a man is expected and required to abrogate his manhood, his independence, and his self-respect—also his garments—before he can be a member in good standing of the Central Federated Union of New York. It is not at all to be wondered at that the "regulation" requiring all articles of clothing worn by members of the union to be tagged with the union toten is practically a dead letter. Even those who make rules of this kind cannot be expected to abide by them and at the same time to retain their self-respect. Men will not abase themselves to such an extent unless compelled to do so.

them, for they would be observed with willingness by all members of the organization. But here is a cool proposition to do worse than invade a man's own house, which is by law his castle; it is an impudent proposition to inspect, and if need be, to condemn, a man's personal apparel.

Men who voluntarily place their necks in the halter of such tyranny have no just ground for complaint when they feel the halter draw. They have no consistent reason for objecting to the attempted enforcement of the "regulation" referred to. The wrong lies in the adoption of so despotic a rule in the first place. But men who sell their birthright as American citizens for so small a consideration as 00+0+0+0+0+0+0+0

To those who have noted the loose manner in which foreign capitalists frequently invest their money on this side of the water, the wonder is not that losses are frequently experienced, but that they are not much greater. These men may be shrewd financiers in their private operations, but when it comes to the investment of money in corporate enterprises abroad they frequently display a diaregard of common business sense that is amazing to the average American. Certainly, in such cases, they have no right to berate this country for their losses, but rather should condemn their own foily.

The ships in the roads were gayly decorated, the sea front was elaborately decorated with bunting and Venetian masts with festoons adorned the route to Osborne, at the entrance of which was erected a unique tribute of the Queen's appreciation of the field marshal's work, in the shape of an arch of laurel. This was the first time such an arch had ever appeared there in honor of any subject of Her Majesty.

After Lord Roberts's audience with the Queen he will join the Canada at Southampton and remain on board untill morning.

A large crowd of people awaited Lord Roberts's arrival at Trinky Pier an landing. The field marshal landed from the launch at 3:30 o'clock p.m., which was the signal for deafening shouts of welcome. Princess Beatrice, in her capacity as Governor of the Isle of Wight, and the Duke of Connaught, representing the Queen, awaited Lord Roberts, whose arm was still in a sling, as the result of being thrown from his horse in Bouth Africa. He was warraly greeted and the party started in royal carriages for Osborne House. The route was lined 4th troops and thronged with cheering sightseers.

REPORTED AS THE RICHEST FIND SINCE KLONDIKE.

Averages Fourteen Dollars to the Pan. Two Prospectors Had Prospected Two Years Before the Discovery Was Made. Tanana People Stampede.

VICTORIA, Jan. 2.— (Exclusive Dispatch.) News was received by the steamer Amur, which returned from the north today, that very rich gold finds have been made between the Tanana River and the coast on Snake Creek. The find, which yields an average of 114 to the pan, was made by two prospectors prospecting the route from the Tanana country. A big stampede has aiready been started. Copies of the Skagway Alaskan received by the Amur have a dispatch from Dawson which says:

"The greatest strike since the discovery of the Klondike, which set the world afire, has been made. The news was brought by mail carriers, is no say that the diggings average 114 to the pan. Particulars are meager, but the news created great excitament, which prevails the whole length of the Tukon River. Capt. Healy revelved letters with particulars of the find, but refuses to part with the information. The rich strike is reported to be near Tanana. A wholesale stampede is probable."

From Valdez it is learned that the discoverers of very rich diggings arrived there for provisions, and returned to the mines. They were unable to work the discovery, owing to the fact that they had no supplies. They remained on the creek, though, and took out 1500. They had been prospecting two years in Tanana with indifferent success, and were on the way out to Valdes when they made the strike. They rejected that all those in the Tanana cistrict had stampeded to the norms.

SUPERVISORS BESOUGHT TO PRO TECT THE LITTLE BURG

Memorialists Remind the Board of the Bloody Past of Calabasas Under the Beign of the Saloon and Plead for Wemen, Children and the Home.

Citizens of Calabasas are agitated over the possibility of having a saloon again in their classic confines and have addressed a memorial to the Board of Supervisors on the subject.

Calabasas, it seems, is now without a saloon, and from a center of lawlessness in the past has turned to a community of eminent respectability.

At least twenty-eight of its citizens say so over their signatures to the memorial. Although no application is now before the Supervisors for a license for Calabasas, the people there have evidently heard a rumor that "something is doing."

Their protest is thus worded:

"To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County: We, the undersigned, citizens of Calabasas, present to the honorable Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county the following memorial to remind them of what the saloon and its advocates have done for the destruction of the peace and prosperity of its patrons and of ur homes and families, and to begages, even to beseech, the said board to refuse any person, whether he be a Mexican. INSANITY OF TWO MEN.

Two men of this city were committed to the insane asylum at Highland by Judge Shaw yesterday, upon recommendation of Drs. H. G. Cates and R. Wernigk.

One of the patients was E. J. Doheny, whose home is with his wife at 4M Ducommun street. He is violent, and, because of illusions of sight and hearing, suffers from mania, both suicidal and homicidal. His condition is due to an over-indulgence in opiates.

The other patient was F. A. Walter, a crasy old fellow, who for several years past has hung around the corner of Los Angeles and Commercial streets. He imagines that his father and grandfather are still alive, and that the former is just a century old, while the latter is 13t years of age. Walter has been in fall for vagrancy so many times that all he dreads-about it is the periodic bath. Several times has he been sent to the poor farm, but he always refused to stay there and was soon back at his corner on Commercial street. Usually he is a happy hunting ground for vermin, and his pursuit of them was a continued disjust to passessed of all the property along Commercial street. He also thought he was a considerable orange shipper.

He confronted the Police Justice in the afternoon with the indifference of an oldtimer. He has been up before The boy is a child of the slums, and is rapidly sinking to the level of the old gutter "soaks." Yesterday he tried to stab the policeman who arrested him.

Some boys grow up to a scrawny, ungainly 16. Brown is one of that sort. He is a thing of rags and patches. His sleeves are too short and he is out at the elbows. There is nothing left of his shirt but an old rag. He had the pieces of it pinned about his neck and across his thin chest to keep out the bitterness of the cold. There was something womanish about his peaked checks, as smooth as any girls, and his pointed chin. His eyes were a lifeless, wishly-washly blue.

He pleaded guilty and showed no interest in the proceedings. The Court lectured him, but it would have been of as much avail to have lectured old John Kelley, the king of the hobos, just back after celebrating his few days' vacation from the chain gang. "Found it," answered the boy dully. "Found it, answered the boy dully. "Found it, answered the boy dully. "Found it where?"

"If ound a bottle out by the oil wells, I drank that up and then I came down town and bought some more."

"Have you ever been arrested before?"

vegetables are likely to be too much frightened.

The exact truth about the matter is that no one can tell just what amount of harm has been done. It is probably very light. The cold has not been severe for any length of time. The orange growers were on the alert, and used all sorts of devices to protect their fruit. Yesterday the temperature rose very slowly. This is decidedly in favor of the crop.

These little nips of frost act very peculiarly. It is impossible to judge accurately from the effects of one as to those of another.

The sum of the story is the injury done cannot be great. No fruit will be destroyed. A little in low ground may be somewhat deteriorated, but no living man for a few days will be able to say definitely what the injury has been or what its extent is.

DROP. ROSS PLOCKS

GETS A THOUSAND DOLLAR JOB IN NEBRASKA UNIVERSITY.

Preliminaries to His Engagement Con-ducted in Secret and in Violation of the Rules Requiring an Endorsement From the Faculty.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) OMAHA (Neb.,) Jan. 2.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) A special from Lincoln says that at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of University Committee of the Board of University Regents today, the engagement of Dr. Edward A. Ross, lately dropped from the list of professors of the Leland Stanford University, was completed. Ross, it will be remembered, claimed that his dismissal from Leland Stanford University was due to his Bryanite views on trusts, railronds and free silver, being distasteful to Mrs. Stanford, the patron of the institution, while the official explanation was that his lectures trended too closely upon a vicious assault of the origin of the Stanford fortune, reflecting on the memory of Mrs. Stanford's late husband. Ross was also mentioned frememory of Mrs. Stanford's late husband. Ross was also mentioned frequently in connection with an editorial position on Bryan's new paper.

The way was paved for his engagement in Nebraska University by Chancellor Andrews at last month's regents' meeting, where, at his urging, it was referred to the Executive Committee in violation of the university rules requiring an indorsement first by the Faculty Committee. A strict injunction of secrecy was given at the time. Today, the Fusion members of the Executive Committee, completed the arrangements. Prof. Ross is to begin work in February at $1000 a year. This is a creation of a new position/for him, as the university already has a professor of Political Economy.

Cattle and Sheep Men Lose Heavily by the Severe Weather in Vicinity of Walsenburg.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

WALSENBURG (Colo.,) Jan. 2.—The weather in this vicinity is the coldest in several years. This condition was preceded by a snowstorm facting several days. The snow was fine and the wind drove it right to the hide of exposed stock. This, followed by such severe cold, will cause the loss of considerable stock on the range.

Reports are coming in of heavy losses of sheep. One herd ranging east of this city is reported to have lost fully 50 per cent. Most of this loss was occasioned by the sheep pilling on top of each other to escape cold and snow, and smothering those underneath. Losses of cattle are also reported.

IBY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.1 CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—The Tribune says signatures were affixed in this city yesterday, to a great international contract, and a Chicago packing firm will supply the Russian government this year with 1500 barrels of a specialy-prepared ment to feed the soldiers of the Caar's army. The terms of the contract will exceed 1100,000. Another Letter Demanding the Withdrawal of Reward Shows Up.

OMAHA, Jan. 2—Edward A. Cudahy, Jr., falled today to identify J. J. Crowe as one of the men who kidnaped him. Young Cudahy appeared at the "City Jall and confronted Crowe in the Bertillion room. After looking at the suspect five minutes or more, he remarked: "I never saw that man before. He is not the one who stood guard over me, and if he had anything at all to do with the kidnaping, I did not see him." Crowe was then released.

publisher of the Hanford Journal, and in it he gives some interesting facts relative to the production of that well-known field during the past year. The wells around Oil City, according to the writer, have been, up to recently, the sole producers of the district, and are still the main source of supply, as the wells in section 28, the newly-developed section, are not as yet numerous or large.

The estimated production of the field for 1900 is given at 2848 barrels, as against 2194 for the year previous. In spite of this decline it is confidently expected that the output for 1901 will be a record breaker, as new territory rich in deposits has been opened and will be fully developed the coming year. It is estimated that there are now 83,000 barrels of oil in storage in tanks at Oil City and vicinity, which is a remarkable reserve supply for a field of that size.

three distinct, though very faint, movements, one after the other. These movements were observed not once, but many times, the number of impulses varying, and Tesla now firmly believes that, with improved apparatus it will be quite possible for the people of the earth to communicate with the inhabitants of other planets. He says: "I gradually learned how to find electrical currents of a pressure of 50,000,000 volts, to produce electrical movements up to 110,000 horse power, and I succeeded in obtaining electrical discharges measuring from end to end 100 feet and more. I have perfected a transmitting apparatus so far that I can undertake to construct a machine which will, without the slightest doubt, be fully competent to convey sufficient energy to the planet Mars to operate one of these delicate appliances which we now are using here, as, for instance, a very sensitive telegraph or telephone instrument.

"Now, since we ourselves are already so far advanced, is it unreasonable to at least believe in the possibility that of the twenty or twenty-five planets of the solar system, one, if not more, might be ahead of us in evolution? Where there is the sun's heat and moisture, life must originate and go on developing, just as a stone must fall to the earth."

NATIONALIZE THE WIRES. OTTAWA (Ont.,) Jan. 2.—Sir Sanford Fleming, one of the principal promoters of the Pacific cable, has written an open letter to Hon. William Muleck, Postmaster-General, in favos of a state-owned telegraph service encircling the globe. This is said to be the beginning of a movement to nationalize the cable and telegraph service of the British Empire. If this were done, Sir Sanford says, it would reduce the price of messages to one-eighth or one-tenth what it now costs on distant British possessions.

Idvely watch Party.

It is said that thirty colored people were gathered at a house on H street near Thirteenth street Monday evening to see the old year out and the new one in. Along toward midnight a pistol was discharged by one of the men, and then, amid the panic which followed, a voice was heard: "Look out; I'se just gwine to let dis ere gun go, and you cullud folks better climb; I don's keer whar de bullets hit." out: I'se just gwine to let die 'ere gun go, and you cullud folks better olimb; I don's keer whar de builets hit." Then came the crack of a second pistol shot, the builet whizsing past the head of a man who had been very attentive to one of the women, much to the displeasure of the man with the shooting-iron. The man who was evidently the mark, jumped up, and rushing out of the house, shouted that if there was going to be any shooting he would get his shotgun. The man with the pistol let drive five more shots, all going wide of the mark. When the man with the shotgun arrived the party had dispersed.

It is galena, and spots in it are so rich that it can be whittled with a knife. AT SAN PEDRO.

Shot by Colored Man on Porch of to Have Dogged Their Footsteps to BAN PEDRO, Jan. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] Peodor Busch, a seaman, was instantly killed by a pistol shot in Happy Valley early this morning. An unknown colored man was the slayer. Jealousy over a woman's attentions was the evident cluss.

The shooting occurred in front of a house kept by Barab. Calderon, a woman of the half-world. It is next door to the piace in which Chris Kennison, a Swede, was killed about a year ago, and is only a short distance from the saloon kept by "Butcher Alf," which place has been the subject of notoriety from time to time.

Busch died without making any statement, and the only direct evidence of his untimely taking off was obtained today from the Calderon woman and from Gerhard Engell, ascaman, who said that he was a friend of the dead man.

From the testimony of these two persons, as given before the Coroner's jury and somewhat corroborated from other sources, it appears that Engell and Husch accompanied the woman's house. The woman says that she saw's colored man on the train, arriving in San Pedro after midnight. The trie entered a saloon, had some hot liquor, and then proceeded to the woman's house. The woman says that she saw's colored man on the train who afterward followed them into the saloon, and later dorged their steps toward her house. Engell says he did not observe such a man.

Shortly after 2 o'clock, while the three were having a luncheon in one of the rear rooms, some one outside was heard calling. The woman replied that that must be the wrong piace, and the person outside made a ribald response.

The woman walked out into the dim light of the porch, and Busch followed.

after the shooting, he saw a colored man run around a corner and disappear.

The condition of the body supported the woman's statement of the shooting. The clothing was burned about the wound, as if the shot had been at very close range. An autopey made they by. Weldon showed that the bullet of st-caliber, had entered the left side between the sixth and seventhy rise, had passed through the pericardium and both the right and left ventricles of the heart, and had lodged in the back between the ninth and tenth ribs.

A preliminary investigation previous to the Coroner's inquest led to the arrest of Theodore Blackwell, a seaman on the schooner Maweems. It was afterward shown conclusively that he was released.

The Calderon woman's description of the slayer of Busch was indefinite, and although the officers are working on some clews which may prove valuation the chances are against their finding the suilty person. The black man is described as rather below the average height, and having a scarred face and mustache.
